COL INGERSOLL AS WITNESS. CROSS-EXAMINED IN THE STORES. MACKAY BUIT.

Judge Ingraham's Court Room Crowded with Persons Anxious to See the Meet-ing Between Him and Joseph M. Chonto. Col. Robert G. Ingersoil assumed the unusual part of witness again yesterday in Judge Ingraham's court room, and inderwent cross-examination by Joseph H. Cheate. The large crowd, attracted by the prospect of seeing the great lawyer himself under fire, showed much interest, notwithstanding that the case in which he appeared was of the dryest. Col. Ingersoll showed his appreciation of the occasion by an unusually natty toilet and a deliberate care fulness in his replies which amounted almost Cheate was not at his accustomed case, but

The case was the continuation of Edward S Stokes's suit against John Mackay and Hector de Castro for the recovery of $75,000, alleged to be due him under a contract by which Mr.

$100,000 in return for certain telegraph securities which were to aid Mr. Mackay in building up a telegraph company to compete with Col. Ingersoll had been counsel for both Mackay and Stokes out incared the when they were working together toward this end. Vesterday he was a witness for Mackay and opposed to Stokes, a position which increased popular interest in his anpearance. On Monday Col. Ingersoll testified that he had arranged the agreement alleged to have been broken, and that he had taken the securities home with him to hold until he should be ordered to deliver them to Mr. Mackey. In this relation he described himself as "stakeholder" for Stokes and Mackay. Yesterday morning, after Col. Ingersoll taken the oath of affirmation and scated him-self comfortably in the witness chair. Mr. Larocque of Mr. Mackay's counsel tried to make him tell the details of the meeting between Mr. Stokes, Mr. De Castro, and himself at the Hoffman House at question was signed.

To this the witness objected. Mr. Larocque pressed the question.
"I do not want to say what took place there,"
said Col. Ingersoll, looking Mr. Larocque calmly in the face and drumming on the edge of the Judge's desk. "I would like to confine my testimony strictly to what I did as stakeholder." holder." I should be very glad to accommodate you," replied Mr. Larceque. "but the same misfortune awaits you which awaits other people who are summoned to testify. I shall have to press my question."

Mr. Ingersoll leaned back for a full minute and looked at the ceiling, while he continued to drum with his fingers. Then heasked to have the question re-"I want to know what proper question to ask me?" asked the witness of the Judge. "I think that testi-mony competent." said

I think that testimony competent." said Judge Ingraham.

Here ex-Judge Cowan of Mr. Stoke's scounsel objected, on the grounds that the conversation asked for came under the head of the privileged communications between counsel and allent.

I am glad somebody objects," said Col. Ingersoil.

"I am glad somebody objects," said Col. Ingersoll.

The objection was overruled, however, and Mr. Ingersoll gave the briefest possible outline of the interview, mentioning nothing which was material to the issue. In fact he proved an exceedingly deliberate and unwilling witness. To questions about a note of Mr. Stokes, he said:

"I remem ber the note, but really I don't femember the details. It wasn't a matter which made a furrow in my brain."

Mr. Choate arose for the state someopropers, the cross-reamination and a hum of expectation went through the room.

"Are you now counsel for Mr. Mackay?" he asker.

"I am not." said Col. Ingersoll with an alert

"I am not," said Col. Ingersoll with an alert expression and a slight twinkle in his eye. "Are you counsel for the Commercial Cable Company?" asked Mr. Choate, gazing at the inv.

"I do not understand that I am."
"tre you counsel for the Postal Telegraph Company."

Company?"
I am.

Mr. Choate then faced him quickly, took a paper from the desk, made a single step forward, and raised his right hand for an impressive gesture. Col. Ingersoil smiled. Mr. Choate smiled, too. He was not so impressive was not so impressive after that.

"Did you not." he asked. "in the presence of Mr. W. E. D. Stokes, say that you knew nothing to the advantage of either side in this dispute?" ald not," said Col. Ingersoll.

"I did not," said Col. Ingersoll.
"Not in substance?"
"Seither in substance or shadow."
Not at the Hoffman House or anywhere else, either in words, figures, or motions. Besides, I don't know that I know him."
Mr. Choate questioned the witness on most of the points raised in the dispute. They were technical, and not understood by the spectators, who found, nevertheless, considerable interest in watching the witness. Col. Ingersoll was exceedingly deliberate in all his replies. He never testified to a statement of which he did not know personally. "I have no independent recollection of it," was a favorite reply. "I can reach an answer by a course of reasoning, but have no absolute knowledge." was another. There were no ragged ends let for Mr. Choate to gather up, although it was evident that he weighed every word of the witness carefully. He directed his attack chiefly st tol. Ingersoll's position as a witness. In answer to a question as to his relations to the two litigants. Col. Ingersoll said:

I was counsel for both of them. When these two friends, from whom I received fees and information. [ell out. I stepped out."
"And sided with Mr. Mackay?"
"Tell me a day since when you have not been Mr. Mackay's lawyer."
"Have not been his lawyer aday."

"Buppose you call it the Postal Telegraph Company?"

"Buppose you call it the Postal Telegraph Company." said Mr. Larocque.

"About March, 1800," said Col. Ingersoll.

Bill sto Mr. Stokes?"

"don't know that I have."

Befors Dec. 20, when this contract was made, you did not pnderstand that you were relied upon by Mr. Mackuy and Mr. do Castro to look out for their interests?"

"No. sir."

Col. Ingersoll add that the Postal Telegraph

"So. sir."

"No. sir."

Col. Insersoil said that since the time the two had failen out, he had not considered himself the counsel of either, and he had not acted for or advised either in matters which concerned them both. It was true that he had appeared several times for Mr. Mackay, but in cases which had no reference to Mr. Stokes or the question on issue between them.

'anyou tell me who paid your fees in the case of Farnsworth against the Western Union Telegraph Company?" asked Mr. Choate, pointedly.

After the laughter had subsided he said had received some of the pay due him, but it was not from Mr. Mackay.

Well, I hope you will get the balance," said Mr. Choate.

"I sincerely hope so," said Col. Ingersoll, fervently.

The witness asked to the pay of the pay The witness asked to see a letter of his writing which Mr. Choate referred to. He said that he had not read it since it had been written.

"I don't remember it."
"You will find it a very good letter." said Mr.
Choata, cheerfully.
"Oh, I suppose so," replied Col. Ingersoll,

"Of course, it must be a good one. There's no reason why I should not write a good one." Mr, de Castro took the stand next. The case

ROBERT EARL, CHIEF JUDGE Mis Promotion Makes Room for Isaac II Maynard in the Court of Appenia,

ALBANY, Jan. 19.-Gov. Flower sent to the Senate to-day the nominations of Robert Earl of Herkimer county to be Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, and Isaac H. Maynard of Delaware county to be Judge of the Court of Appeals. The nominations were promptly confirmed by the Senate, that of Judge Earl unanimously and that of Judge Maynard by a party vote, Senator Edwards voting with the Democrats. The Republicans opposed the Democrats. The Republicans opposed the confirmation of Judge Maynard because he was counsel for the Democrats before the Court of Appeals in the recent election cases.

Chief Judge Earl has had a long judicial experience. He was County Judge of Herkimer county in 1835. He was elected Judge of the Court of Appeals in 1863. He was elected again in 1875, having been previously appointed by the Governor. He has been on the bench ever since. Next to Judge Andrews he is the ranking member of the court in point of continuous service, and he was a member of the court before Judge Andrews was elected. He is the oldest Democratic member of the court both in length of service and in continuous service.

Judge Maynard was first assistant Attorney-General under Attorney-General Tabor, and was reappointed under the present Attorney-General. He was elected to the Assembly of 1874 from Delaware county, and was relected to the Assembly of 1873. He was also elected to the Assembly of Delaware county in 1871. He ran for Secretary of State in 1881 and was defented. He has been a can-didate before State Conventions since then, notably before the Democratic State Convention of last year for confirmation of Judge Maynard because he Sound, Nobody Aboard. The Italian bark Colombo D., which arrived vasterday from Alexandretta, Syria, fell in with the abandoned Nova Scotian barkentine Hutchings Bros., bound from Pernambueo for New York, on Jan. 11, about 200 miles east southeast of Bermuda. Capt. Giovanni Vigli-ani of the Colombo D. reports that the Hutchings Bres. was apparently in good condition. Her topsails were set, but all other canvas was furied. Her masts were all standing, and her yards, which were braced up, were intact. Darkness prevented the Italian skipper from making a thorough examination of her. She had enough freeboard to justify the belief that she was not waterlogged, and the Italians wondered why she had been shandoned.

She is owned by Hutchings Brothers of 31 South street, and they were surprised to learn that she was apparently entirely seaworthy when the Colombo D. passed her. She sailed from Pernambuce on Dec. 10 with a cargo of sugar in bags. She was only a year oid, and had made only one voyage. Her skipper, Capt. Armstrong, is a Nova Scotian, who has followed the sea since his boyhood. He is fifty years old, and his employers do not believe he would have abandoned the Hutchings Bros, unless she was unseaworthy. The Hutchings Bros, was rated first class in the American Lloyds. She had not been specken since she left Pernambuco. She may have been caught in a cyclone off the Bermudas and all hands—they numbered nine—may have been swept off her decks by a huge sea. furied. Her masts were all standing, and her to Have Been Brought from Newark. The police found two cases of small-pox yesterday in Sullivan street. One was an unnamed baby, 1% year old, the child of parents named Baglinghi, living in 143 Sullivan street, a crowded tenement, and the other Donato liussi, 22 years old, of 141 Sullivan street, another tenement.

Both in Tenements-The Biscase Supposes

Dr. Edson says these are the first cases of small-pox developed in New York in the past two years, and he believes that the disease was brought from Newark, where there have been about forty cases in the last six months. Russi was in Newark three weeks ago, and a Newark man afflicted with small-pox came from Newark four weeks ago and put up in a house in Elizabeth street. He cluded the health authorities when they went after him, and was finally found in Orange and returned to Newark. Russi and the Baglinghi child have apparently been suffering about six days. They were taken to the Reception Hospital for Contagious Diseases.

There are five small children in the Baglinghi apartments. They and their parents were vaccinated about two weeks ago, and show no signs of disease. The houses are under observation, but the health authorities do not anticipate any spread of the intection.

KILLED WHILE COUPLING CARS. One of the Many Accidents that Happen in

There is little doubt that Patrick Murphy. the freight brakeman who met his death in the New York Central Bailroad yards, at the evening, was killed while coupling cars. Murphy was 28 years old and lived at Hastings.
According to the police, the Central yards, with their scores of tracks and hundreds of switches, are getting to be a good deal of a slaughter house. The Sergeant at the desk in the 100th street station said yesterday that in the past six months there had been eight or ten accidents there, some of them fatal. About three weeks ago a man was brought into the station from these yards dead. Then there are a good many accidents, the Sergeant said, which are never brought to the attention of the police. Friends take the victims home, and the matter is never reported.

Boston, Jan. 19 .- A two-year-old son of Mrs. Levenson, who lives in the North End, was left alone in a wagon at the corner of Salem and Hanover streets yesterday afternoon. horse became frightened and ran away, dashing into an electric car. When the crash came the blue-bonneted baby on the seat went up in the air as though shot from a catapuit. The child fell back in the wagon and the horse dashed on up Hanover street. All that could be seen of the baby was a blue bonnet and a pair of hands elinging to the side of the wagon. At the Washington street junction the wagon struck a herdie and the horse was thrown to the ground. Several persons dashed to the rescue of the child, but before they could reach him the horse was up and away again. In Dock square another electric car was encountered. Again the baby bounced up in the air and again he dropped into the wagon, and before his exciting ride could be continued a teamstor caught the runaway horse and held him. The horse was pretty well played out, but the baby was uninjured. the blue-bonneted baby on the seat went un

MISS MEYERS SCREAMED FOR HELP. She Thought Her Unwelcome Companie Meant to Shoot Her.

Policeman Barry was standing at Broadway and Fortieth street about 1 o'clock yesterday morning when he saw a young woman lean from the window of a cab that was being driven rapidly through West Fortieth street. and heard her scream. "Help! He's going to shoot me!" Barry had the driver stop, and on opening the door of the cab saw a well-dressed woman with blood streaming from a cut on her nose. By her side sat a thick-set, darkcomplexioned young man, who was beseech complexioned young man, who was beseeching her not to make a scene. The woman said: "Officer, this man assaulted me and threatened to shoot me."

Barry ordered the cabman to drive to the Thirtieth street station house. Arriving there the woman said she was May Meyers, 27 years old, of Buffalo. Her companion described himself as Charles Hildreth, a clork living at 144 Madison avenue. No revolver was found. Miss Meyers said she was visiting friends in this city. She met Hildreth on Monday evening and they dined together. About 1 o'clock she engaged the cabman to drive her home. Hildreth wanted her to accombany him to the low resorts in the lower part of the city, and when she refused he forced himself into the cab and told the driver to drive to Mulberry Hend. Miss Meyers said that she objected to Hildreth's entering the cab, and screamed without knowing what she was doing.

Miss Meyers refused to make a complaint against Hildreth and Sorgeant Cooper locked them both up on the officer's charge of disorderly conduct. Hildreth sent a message to James Wakely begging him to bait him out, but Wakely failed to respond. Frequent quarrels with his wife followed. On Monday. instead of going to business, he went out with some friends and returned home in the evening intoxicated. His wife upbraided him. Warm words ensued, and finally Mrs. McGee. exclaiming "I would rather be dead than live this way," threw up a front window and leaped out. She was unconscious when she was taken up and removed to a neighboring drug store. By the advice of a physician she was conveyed to St. Mary's Hospital, in Hoboken. Blood came from her mouth and ears, and it was thought that her skull was fractured, but the surgeons at the hospital say it is not. Her condition is critical, however, and she may die. A rumor was circulated that McGoe had thrown his wife from the window, but none of the neighbors is willing to be responsible for it, although several of them say that the couple have quarreled frequently in the last two or three months. Mrs. McGee is not able to make a statement. Her husband visited her at the hospital yesterday, and seemed to be overwhelmed with grief. this way." throw up a front window and leaped

In the suit which Mrs. M. Buchanan has brought for a separation from Dr. Alexander Buchanan, a motion was made before Justice Patterson in the Supreme Court yesterday for counsel fee and alimony. Affidavita were preented by Mrs. Buchanan's counsel, Isaac N. Miller, alleging that Dr. Buchanan deserted his wife for Mrs. Kate M. Foster, who formerly kept a boarding house, and that he is maintaining her at great expense, although declining to contribute to his wife's support. Mrs. Buchanan placed the income of her husband at $20,000, but his counsel said it was hut $2,000. Mrs. Buchanan also has an action pouding against Mrs. Foster to recover $50,000 for the alleged alienation of the affections of her husband. Mrs. Buchanan states that she married him in 1853, and that they lived together happily until 1885, when Mrs. Foster legan to exercise an influence over him.
